Ladner indicted, arrested in Operation Pretense

By DENA BISNETTE
and ELLIS CUEVAS

Hancock County Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner has been arrested and charged after being indicted in "Operation Pretense."

Ladner was arrested Friday morning at his home in Dedeaux by Federal Bureau of Investigation officers after a Grand Jury returned an indictment Thursday including four counts of mail fraud, one count of bribery, one count of extortion and one count of conspiracy to commit bribery.

Ladner was taken to federal court in Biloxi for arraignment before U.S. Magistrate John Roper on Friday and pleaded innocent to all charges.

Ladner was released on a $25,000 personal recognizance bond.

The supervisor, the second one from Hancock County to be indicted, was one of only two reelected this year. The other reelected supervisor, Sam Perniciaro of Beat Four, was already under indictment in Operation Pretense when he achieved a landslide victory at the polls.

Ladner, however, tied with challenger Jerry Medford of Diamondhead in the August primary election and then won his third term by only a single vote after affidavit ballots were counted.

"First, I feel sorry for Roger Dale and his family," Medford said after hearing about the indictment, "but I feel real positive that our incoming supervisors and other elected leaders will pull together to better our image."

"If something in the future happens that there is a vacancy in District Three, and if the other supervisors would desire my services, I would accept to serve on an interim basis until the November special election."

"At that time I would not be a candidate because of prior business commitments in January 1989."

"The next few months are critical in fully implementing the unit system and any other programs that would reduce taxes and improve services for our citizens," Medford added.

The Hancock County Election Commission has already looked into the procedure for replacing a supervisor as a result of the outcome of Perniciaro's case.

Perniciaro, who had pleaded innocent upon arraignment in July, changed his plea to guilty Nov. 17 when he appeared U.S. District Court in Jackson.

The election commission said the remaining board members must replace a supervisor with a temporary appointee who is not expected to run for the office in a special election, except in a case where death is involved.

A special election, according to state law, can be held only on the first Tuesday in November unless the governor asks for an exception.

Stop the Dump group to picket local bank

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

Hancock Bank's Bay-90 branch is scheduled to be picketed Monday by members of Stop the Dump, a group of concerned citizens from the Dubuison Community trying to prevent the location of a sanitary landfill near their homes.

"We are picketing Hancock Bank because they have had every opportunity to stop the sale of property to Waste Management which is being used for the dump," said Mavis Newell, president of the Stop the Dump committee.

Hancock Bank is serving as executor of the Ritayik estate, which includes the 1,000 acres purchased by Waste Management, Inc. to use as a sanitary landfill.

According to a letter signed by Hancock Bank President Leo W.

Seal Jr., the assets of the estate were left to a list of Catholic Charities and the bank as executor is responsible for "disposing of the assets so the beneficiaries would realize the maximum benefits from the sales."

The letter further states the offer from a Waste Management associate on the parcel of land was "submitted to the various Charities for consideration and THEY approved it."

However Bishop Joseph Lawson Howze of the Catholic Diocese of Biloxi said Seal's statement "is incorrect."

"We know the land has to be sold within 10 years and we support the efforts to sell the land within that time limit. However, we do not want the land used for any purpose that can be proven to be a health hazard to the local people, now or in the future," Howze stated in a letter to former Stop the Dump President Jamie Hockert.

Newell said several reasons during the past several months had been reported to her by a bank officer, which would have been grounds to cancel or refuse renewal of the option on the land.

"But today they are clearing the land," Newell said.

The group tried to prevent the location of the landfill by campaigning to the Mississippi Natural Resource Permit Board to deny a permit for the dump, but this attempt was unsuccessful.

Currently an appeal has been filed in Chancery Court in opposition to the permit for the landfill.

Pickers.....

"We intend to go to the Supreme Court if necessary," Newell said.

One reason for picketing is to try and inform more people of the problem the entire Gulf Coast is facing if this dump is installed, she added.

"While picketing at the Pass Christian branch of Hancock Bank, I talked to 50 people who had not heard of the problem," she said.

"We have worked day and night every day for a year trying to get the message out to the public," Newell continued.

People just don't realize how much this dump can affect the entire Gulf Coast area, she said.

Waste Management has 70 acres currently permitted for a landfill, in which garbage may be buried 40 feet below ground and may rise as high as 80 feet from ground level.

"Do you think they will stop there when they have bought 1,000 acres," Newell said.

"I was told in front of witnesses, if it is feasible and will make money, Waste Management will haul in garbage from anywhere in the world," she added.

Newell also said Waste Management had been negotiating to purchase a parcel of land near Rouse's Bridge and if successful in securing the land will be able to bring garbage in to the 1,000 acre site by barge.

"These barges loaded with garbage will come right through the Bay of St. Louis and past many homes in the Lazy Acres and Oak Lawn subdivision. And what happens if it runs aground?" Newell asked.

"If you do not speak out today and join us in our fight it is going to be too late," she said.

"Join us in front of Hancock Bank to picket. Find out what the location of this dump will mean to you. Time is running out. This will affect the whole coast in one way or the other," Newell said.

Crawford, both of Bay St. Louis; a daughter, Mrs. Bernadette Ellspermann of Bay St. Louis; two brothers, Eli Crawford of East McKeesport and Charles Crawford of Baker, La.; six grandchildren; and two step-grandchildren.

Quotables by Cuevas

We heard some good reports on the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Christmas parade.

There appeared to be many youngsters giving Santa their Christmas wish list.

Santa's arrival on the Farveville Stage Coach was quite neat.

Good luck to Santa on his travels.

While on the subject of Christmas and Santa.

We have made special arrangement with the man from the North Pole on the delivery of letters from youngsters here at the newspaper.

The Sea Coast Echo will be publishing letters to Santa from area youngsters through Christmas and then will forward them to the North Pole.

If you haven't written to Santa, you still have time to do so. Send your letters to: Santa, The Sea Coast Echo, P.O. Box 230, Bay St. Louis, MS. 39520.

A new theme being spread around the area by the American Red Cross is 'Roll 'em Up Y'all'.

Of course this refers to rolling up your sleeve and donating a unit of blood.

A Hancock County Blood Drawing will be held on Wednesday from 2 to 7 p.m. at the Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray American Legion Post No. 77, Coleman Avenue, Waveland.

The last drawing held at the Bay St. Louis American Legion Post was like years gone by in the number of persons giving a unit of blood, and this was very good for the Blood Bank.

As you know, there is a nationwide shortage of blood.

Lin Rutherford from the Waveland Legion said he is hoping Wednesday's drawing will produce over 100 units of blood and this will only be possible with a good turnout of donors.

The Hancock County Blood Bank is looking for folks who are in good health, weigh more than 110 pounds, are at least 17 years old, have no history of hepatitis, have not had recent major surgery, and are not pregnant or have not had a baby in the last six weeks.

Blood is needed, and this will be a good time to give.

There are several residences and businesses in the area with some very nice Christmas decorations.

As an annual event, Mollere Drive in Waveland is once again all decorated for Christmas.

Wouldn't it be nice if the residents of all area streets would take the time to decorate like the Mollere Drive group?

Thanks to everyone who takes time to decorate their home or business.

My brother Felton once again has been decorating his Victoria Street residence.

I think he stays awake at night figuring out different displays to build each year.

TAX BILLS READY—Property tax bills for the residents of Hancock County, Bay St. Louis and Waveland were delivered to the Bay St. Louis Post Office on Thursday and many were delivered on Friday. Some 53,000 bills were printed and prepared in recent weeks. Edward Murtagh, Hancock County Assessor-Tax Collector, said. Those in photo from left are Mary Ann Wilkerson, Helene Moran, Tina Stiglet and Murtagh. Some residents like to pay their property taxes before the end of the year and Murtagh reported this was the earliest ever for the bills to be distributed in Hancock County. All property taxes are payable in the month of January. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Resident complains about old oil well site in Bayou Phillips area

Sea Coast Echo
Bay St. Louis

Dear Sir:

As the Marshall R. Young, Sharp 31-2 No. 1 Section 31 Township 85 Range 41 West oil well in Bayou Phillips area is no longer producing and much of the machinery and apparatus has been removed, I feel the oil company should be obligated to cover their huge pit, approximately 50 by 30 by 6 feet deep in which the bottom contains a foot or so of oily water.

Also the remaining iron stump of the main well is encased six feet by six feet of creosoted lumber and covered by an iron grill.

In the containment is four feet of thick black oily residue. The grill has openings of which a small child the size of little Jessie McClure, or even larger, could easily slip through.

Kids have been known to play back there in the vicinity of the oil well and pit and could pose a hazard to their safety.

Recently a large woods fire surrounded the oil well, blazing many feet high, and even the volunteer firefighters would not go near the vicinity while the fire was close to the well for fear of their lives.

Certainly Marshall R. Young & Company have profited enough over the past ten years of this well's production to make it a safe place for the inhabitants of the community.

I might also add, this area is a bird sanctuary and a game preserve.

Kidney Foundation chairman seeks organ donors in Mississippi

Dear Editor:

I would like to share the following figures with you in the hope that you will participate in a nationwide effort to increase public awareness about the critical need for more Americans to discuss their feelings about organ donation with their families.

At the close of 1986, 11,000 Americans were left waiting and hoping for kidney transplants. Some 5,000 people with severe sight-threatening eye disorders did not receive corneal transplants. And hundreds of people died waiting for heart, lung, pancreas and liver transplants.

We know that, according to a recent Gallup Poll (March 1987), approximately half of all Americans are aware of organ donation and transplantation would want to have their own organs donated after death but too few have discussed these personal wishes with their families.

And, family consent is usually required before any donation can take place. We know that messages directed to the public about organ donation must emphasize the importance of family discussion following one's decision to sign an organ donor card.

Thank you for your considerations and support.

Sincerely,
Lucy G. Mazzafarro
Executive Director
National Kidney Foundation of Mississippi, Inc.

In Congress

By Congressman Trent Lott

A First Step

Our President and General Secretary Gorbachev of the Soviet Union are signing the much-touted INF treaty. I wish them well and we all hope that this is the first step toward eliminating nuclear weapons worldwide. But while we are all interested in and supportive of taking this first and important step, I urge caution.

We have struggled long and hard for this treaty. The process has been tedious. We've negotiated six years and we have insisted on an agreement based on the so-called zero option. We are now close to this goal and for that we must salute the President and his team of negotiators.

We must also keep in mind that the Reagan policy of effective verification of any arms control agreement has at its root specific goals. These include, for the INF agreement specifically, the elimination of the entire infrastructure for supporting INF missiles. Additionally, all treaties negotiated henceforth should include comprehensive exchanges of detailed, internally consistent data about the forces controlled, be written in laymen's terms.

This, we hope, will eliminate ambiguity. And we must be allowed short-notice site inspections at both sites associated with treaty-limited items, and at suspected sites.

Will this treaty meet this criteria? Or, will it allow the Soviets "wiggle room" in the future? I hope it doesn't.

Past experience reminds us that the Soviets have cheated on arms control agreements before. If we forget this bitter lesson, the negative effect on our national security caused by a hastily reviewed arms control treaty will vastly outweigh the possible good.

Let's take our time with this treaty and do it right. Let's be positive, but let's not jeopardize our national security by rushing to support a treaty in the heat of Summit Fever.

This is a step in the right direction, but we must take it carefully.

Matters of Health

Epstein-Barr virus—lots of company

I've read that most of us have the virus that causes mononucleosis. Why don't most of us get sick with "mono"?

Almost everyone has Epstein-Barr virus (EBV)—the herpes virus that typically causes infectious mononucleosis or the "kissing disease". By adulthood, 90-95 percent of Americans carry EBV.

The reason EBV is common is because it's transmitted through the saliva, and most people drink after one another, many share toothbrushes and kiss each other enough to unsuspectingly ensure that plenty of the virus gets around.

Most of the people who have EBV, fortunately, never have any symptoms. Once infected, however, you have the virus for life and can transmit it to others. Most people who transmit the virus are perfectly healthy.

EBV is associated with other diseases besides mononucleosis. They are Burkitt's lymphoma, seen mainly in equatorial Africa, and nasopharyngeal carcinoma, which is common in Chinese and other oriental populations. These diseases are rare in the U.S.

The most common disease caused by EBV in the western world is mononucleosis. It's becoming primarily a disease of adolescents and young adults. Symptoms or manifestations of "mono" include fever, sore throat, enlarged lymph nodes, fatigue, and muscle pain. The illness can sometimes look like toxoplasmosis, which also involves the lymph nodes and can cause fever, or like cytomegalovirus, (CMV), which can cause fever and fatigue.

The treatment for "mono" is bedrest. Some patients may suffer only from a fever and sore throat for a week or so, then feel fine. Others may have severe fatigue, which can last up to several weeks or sometimes a couple of months. Two to three weeks, however, is the usual timespan for "mono" symptoms.

Whether or not a person suffers from the symptoms of mononucleosis, it's presumed that EBV can be transmitted by any person who has it. That doesn't necessarily mean the person constantly transmits the virus every time he or she shares a glass or a kiss. It's estimated that at any one time, 10-25 percent of the people who've been infected with EBV will have the virus in their saliva. The rest of the time these same people will not be infectious to others.

EBV shouldn't be high on your list of things to worry about. Although there can be complications with "mono", these rarely occur. Even if a person with the virus becomes pregnant, it poses little danger to the baby, though very few cases of congenital infection have been reported.

There's really no need to try to routinely determine if you have EBV, because the test is expensive and not widely available. A "mono spot-test" will likely be given to someone who goes to the physician with a sore throat and other mononucleosis symptoms.

A recently recognized syndrome of chronic EBV infection in young adults, particularly women, manifested by low grade fever, sore throat, depression, arthritis and aches in the back and neck, persisting for up to 2 years would justify the expensive EBV antibody profile. This decision should be made in consultation with your physician. Otherwise, even if a person is one of the many carriers of EBV there's no need to be concerned or do the expensive test.

ASK OCHSNER

Q. What are generic drugs and how are they different from brand name drugs? When can generic drugs be used? Mrs. BGL, Jackson

A. Generic drugs are the chemical equivalents of their brand name rivals, but almost always are much less expensive, says Dr. Ernest J. Kaminski, general internist at the Ochsner Clinic in New Orleans.

Dr. Kaminski says the important thing to remember is that the drugs are equivalent—they act the same way in the body and produce the same results. The U.S. Food and Drug Administration oversees the manufacture of all drugs, and their standards apply to generic drugs as well as their trade name counterparts.

The manufacturer of a brand name drug submits its product to the FDA, where the safety and effectiveness of the drug is tested. When the drug is approved by the FDA, the company then patents its product. This patent remains in effect for 17 years. At the end of that time, other drug manufacturers may produce a generic form of this drug, which can be sold more cheaply.

The pharmaceutical company producing the generic drug is able to sell the drug at a lower cost because it did not have the research and development costs or advertising costs as had the company which patented the brand name drug. Also, the brand name drug has been on the market for 17 years by the time the generic drug is produced, so it is known to be safe and effective.

Ochsner physicians use their discretion in prescribing generic drugs to their patients if they feel it is an appropriate medicine for the patient. In addition, it also saves the patient unnecessary and excessive costs.

Dr. Kaminski recommends that you talk to your physician if you have any specific questions about a generic drug or a prescription.

Fire equipment funds available

The Mississippi Forestry Commission expects to have approximately $50,000 in Federal funds available for FY 88 for small matching grants to rural communities to assist them in obtaining needed firefighting equipment, according to an announcement this week by State Forester Robert S. Moss.

The grants will be issued under the Rural Community Fire Protection Program (RCFP) as authorized under PL 95-113. Grants to approved applicants are limited to a maximum of $2,000 per community.

"Communities or fire departments interested in securing one of the RCFP grants would be well advised to take prompt action in this regard," says Curt Fulgham, Fire Control Forester for the Commission.

Rural communities of under 10,000 are eligible for the funds. In the event the expected Federal funds are not received by the Forestry Commission all applicants will be notified as soon as possible.

Application forms may be secured from Curt Fulgham, Fire Control Forester, Suite 300, 301 Building, Jackson, MS 39201, or from Commission District Offices at Tupelo, Philadelphia, Bay Springs, Wiggins, Brookhaven, Rolling Fork and Elliott. Completed applications must be returned to Fulgham by 5 p.m., Feb. 1, 1988.

AICR offers "Feel Great In '88" calendar

"Feel Great In '88" is both the title and the message behind the American Institute for Cancer Research's new 1988 health tips calendar. Its colorful format provides a collection of recipes, health information and practical suggestions for healthier living.

Using colorful, light-hearted illustrations and easy-to-understand health information, the calendar provides a variety of information for a healthier lifestyle.

Because the American Institute for Cancer Research focuses its research and education programs on reducing cancer risk through diet and nutrition, many of the health tips, including recipes, provide easy-to-follow nutritional information for lower cancer risk.

But the calendar also provides a variety of other health information, including pointers on stress reduction and on the positive effects of sensible exercise programs.

The practical advice given can provide a good basis for a health start to each day.

"Feel Great In '88" is part of the education program of the American Institute for Cancer Research, a national, non-profit cancer organization which provides educational information on cancer and cancer prevention, and which funds cancer research at hospitals and universities across the country.

Although there is no charge for this special calendar, the Institute is requesting a donation, if possible, to help support its research and education programs. A copy of the calendar may be ordered by writing to the American Institute for Cancer Research, Dept. FG88, Washington, D.C. 20069.

RONALD B. ROOT

New plant manager named at Du Pont

Ronald B. Root has been named plant manager-designate for Du Pont's titanium dioxide plant in DeLisle effective Dec. 1 and will become plant manager Jan. 1.

Root replaces David L. Settle, who will retire from Du Pont on Jan. 1, 1987 after 35 years of service. Settle has been manager of the DeLisle Plant since 1981.

Root joined Du Pont in 1968 in the Organic Chemicals Department's Jackson laboratory in Deepwater, N.J., as a research engineer.

Since that time, he has held several engineering and management positions with Du Pont.

Prior to being named manager of Du Pont DeLisle's plant, Root was in the Chemical & Pigments Department's human resources division in Wilmington, Delaware.

A native of York, N.Y., Root graduated from Clarkson University, Potsdam, N.Y. in 1964 with a B.S. degree in Chemical Engineering. He received his B.S. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Illinois, Urbana, in Chemical Engineering in 1966 and 1968 respectively.

Root is a member of American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

Root is married to the former Joyce Kellogg of Fowlerville, N.Y. and they have two children. The Roots plan to reside in Gulfport.

Ladner.....

Gene Taylor and Representative J.P. Compretta are both looking into the possibility of having an election before November to fill Perniciaro's seat.

Both felt the March 8 Super Tuesday would be a possibility.

Primaries will be held in March to fill the seat to be vacated by United States Senator John C. Stennis and the Congressional seat now held by Representative Trent Lott who is seeking Stennis' seat.

Perniciaro, who would have gone into his fourth term on Jan. 4, was convicted on mail fraud and extortion charges involving the receipt of a $500 kickback and a set of tires for a personal vehicle from Holliman Equipment Company and a $100 kickback from Davis Chemical.

He is being allowed by a federal judge to continue serving his current term due to the short time left and in exchange for cooperation with the U.S. Attorney's Office.

No date has been set for his sentencing pending the outcome of the investigation.

Ladner, 40, has a March 7 trial date set and is represented by Gulfport attorney Albert Necaize, who both were unavailable for comment.

The indictment against Ladner alleges that he took a $97 kickback from Davis Chemicals of Hattiesburg in August 1986; a $500 kickback from Holliman Equipment Company of Jackson in October 1984; and about $1,597 kickback from unnamed individuals or companies between November 1984 and September 1986.

The indictment also charges that Ladner extorted about $1,500 from Holliman Equipment Company between November 1984 and January 1985.

Ladner is also accused of taking bribes for his influence in Hancock County matters involving $5,000 or more between July 1984 and January 1985.

The alleged $500 kickback was for a pothole patcher that was supposed to cost the county $37,500, but according to the indictment, Hancock County actually paid $40,250, a difference of $2,500. Ladner got $500, according to the indictment, leaving $1,500 still unaccounted for.

Ladner is the 40th county supervisor in 22 Mississippi counties to be indicted by a grand jury as a result of the FBI's Operation Pretence.

Montis celebrate golden anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. T. F. Monti of Bay St. Louis celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary by renewing their vows at a special Mass on Nov. 28 at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

The Mass was concelebrated by the Reverend Johnny Planea, acting pastor; the Reverend Michael Tracey of Biloxi, and Monsignor Noel Foley of Jackson. Mr. and Mrs. Monti were married at Our Lady of the Gulf on December 2, 1937 with Mrs. Leslie Blalze (Anna Benvenuti) as maid of honor and the late Anthony Benvenuti as best man. Mrs. Monti is the former Mary Benvenuti.

Commentator for the Mass was Joe Monti with Bill Monti Jr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Monti Jr. serving as lectors for the scripture readings.

Miss Cherrie Monti assisted the concelebrants as eucharistic minister while Neil and Casey Heitzmann, grandsons of the honored couple, served as altar boys. Douglas Gleber and Miss Leslie Gleber provided the guitar accompaniment and singing for the Mass.

During the offertory of the Mass, grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Monti presented the offertory gifts of bread and wine. Each grandchild also brought gifts to the altar that symbolized special achievements or events in the lives of their grandparents. Additionally, a scrapbook of mementos and congratulatory letters from friends, members of the clergy, and relatives was given to the couple at this time.

Following the Mass, family and friends attended a reception at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Main Street which was hosted by the honorees' children and their spouses: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Monti Sr. of Lacombe, La.; Mr. and Mrs. William A. Monti Sr.; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Monti; and Mr. and Mrs. Carl J. Heitzmann (Mimi Monti) all of Bay St. Louis. Entertainment for the evening was provided by Davis Hawthorne.

Historical society to reenact 1814 Battle

The Hancock County Historical Society will present a modified reenactment of the Battle of the Bay of St. Louis, 1814, at 2 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 13.

The ceremony will take place at the corner of Ulman Avenue and Beach Boulevard.

A marker will be dedicated by Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr. and a wreath will be thrown in honor of those who died in the battle.

During the battle, the American ship Sea Horse, assisted by two guns mounted on shore, fought the superior numbers of the British. By the end of two days of battle, American casualties numbered six dead and 35 wounded, with more than double that number of losses for the British.

The period of time for this battle allowed Andrew Jackson to complete his fortifications for the defense at Chalmette and ultimately swung the war in favor of the Americans.

The public is invited to attend the ceremony.

STAGES IN FAMILY LIFESTYLES

As individuals and families move from one stage of life to the next, their needs in furnishings change. When designing your home allow for future adjustments as well as furnishings to meet present needs.

Single people whether young or old usually enjoy a great deal of freedom and flexibility without specific family responsibilities. If you are a single person living alone, designing your home will simply be a matter of deciding what you want and fitting into your spending plan.

If you live with another person for the sake of companionship and/or economy, plan your home together. Consider what you buy; what to purchase jointly and individually; how much to spend; how furnishings are to be divided should you separate; and who is responsible for upkeep and care.

Newly-married couples may begin their life together in a mobile home, a small apartment or a house. If you are at this happy place in the life cycle, work out your decorating plan together.

Consider what usable furnishings either of you have from previous living quarters; what additional items are needed; what must be purchased immediately and what can be added in the future; which of your purchases will be temporary and which will be used for many years; what you both like; where you must compromise; how much can be spent; and how purchases will fit into your family spending plan.

Beginning families start with the first baby who changes everything—your living pattern, space requirements, expenses and home furnishing needs. You will need a space for the baby to eat, sleep, grow and play as well as space for you to relax and entertain friends.

Consider what extra room is needed; what additional furnishings and equipment are needed; what extra storage space must be planned; and how expenses will fit into your budget.

Families with young children need space to expand. Children must have room to run and play, to make noise, to be outdoors, to practice music, to paint or to begin hobbies.

Consider what additional space is needed; what extra furniture is required; how storage needs can be met; how durable furnishings must be to withstand years of hard use; how expenses will fit into your spending plan; how space and furnishings can be arranged for both adults' and children's activities.

Families with adolescent and college-age children find home a source of pride and joy for the entire family. Young people need space for reading, enjoying hobbies and being alone, as well as for taking part in family activities and entertaining.

Consider how each person can take part in planning the home. What new purchases will be made; what remodeling is needed; the amount to be spent on decorating; and how expenses will be handled.

Older adults often find home furnishing needs less demanding. With children leaving home, both space and furniture needs are reduced.

Parents may want to plan space and facilities for sons and daughters to visit home; to keep some play equipment and space for grandchildren; and to arrange storage space for possessions of sons and daughters who are away from home.

They may wish to consider moving to a more compact home; to plan living on one floor to eliminate climbing steps; and to look for furnishings that are easy to maintain.

The annual holiday Silver Tea of the Altar Society of St. Paul's Catholic Church, Pass Christian, is slated for Wednesday, Dec. 9, from 2 to 5 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C.R. Gallagher, Jr., 651 East Scenic drive in Pass Christian.

The public is cordially invited to attend this event, proceeds of which will fund various altar society projects throughout the year, according to Mrs. L.L. Denson, society president.

Serving as co-chairman of the tea are Mmes. Zack Anthony, Rory Rafferty, and William Wood.

Fire hazard

Using a portable heater? Use a smoke detector, too

Government safety experts warn that half the deaths and one-third of the injuries resulting from portable electric heater fires occur when people use heaters overnight and the family is sleeping. If heaters must be used at night, a properly installed and maintained smoke detector in the same room may provide early warning of danger if a fire should occur.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission estimates for 1985 indicate that fire departments responded to 3,700 residential fires involving portable electric heaters. These fires resulted in 1160 deaths, 260 injuries and $50.6 million in property loss.

CPSC suggests the following precautions for safe portable heater use:

Use heaters at least three feet away from objects such as bedding, furniture and drapes. Never use heaters to dry clothes or shoes. Do not place heaters where towels or other objects could fall on the heater and start a fire.

Use heaters on the floor. Never place heaters on furniture, since they may fall, dislodging or breaking parts in the heater.

Do not use heaters in wet or moist places such as bathrooms, as parts in the heater may be damaged.

String out cords on top of rugs or floors. Placing anything on top of the cord could cause the cord to overheat.

Do not use an extension cord unless absolutely necessary. Using an extension cord with high wattage appliances can start a fire. If you must use an extension cord, it must be marked No. 14 or No. 12 AWG; this tells the thickness or gauge of the wire in the cord. For example, a cord sold as an air conditioner extension cord will have these heavy wires. Do not use a cord marked No. 16 or No. 18 AWG. Only use extension cords bearing the label of an independent testing laboratory such as U.L. or E.T.L.

Be sure the plug fits snugly in the outlet. Since a loose plug may overheat, have a qualified repairman replace the worn out plug or outlet. Since heaters draw lots of power, the cord and plug may feel warm. But if the plug feels too hot to touch, unplug the heater and have a qualified repairman check for problems. If the heater and its plug are found to be working properly, have the outlet replaced. Using a heater with a hot cord or plug could start a fire.

If a heater is used on an outlet proected by a ground fault circuit interrupter (GFCI) which trips, do not assume the GFCI is broken. Because GFCIs protect locations where leakage currents can cause a severe shock, stop using the heater and have it checked, even if it seems to be working properly.

Broken heaters should be checked and repaired by a qualified appliance service center. Do not attempt to repair, adjust or replace parts in the heater yourself.

To report a product-related accident, consumers may call the CPSC toll-free hotline at 800-638-2772. The teletypewriter line for the hearing impaired is 800-638-8270.

BOBBY COMPRETTA, Location manager for Winn-Dixie, Inc. presents Prima Wusnack, Hancock County Library System director with a video-tape entitled "The Right Choice." The 14-minute VHS tape produced by Winn-Dixie in cooperation with the Federal Bureau of Investigation deals with the situations faced by our young people today when they are offered illegal drugs. "The tape has a simple message," says Compretta, "just say no." "We are providing a copy to the public library system and the public school system in each community where Winn-Dixie does business," he continued. Wusnack says the videotape will be placed in the library system's video collection and made available for public use. In addition to the schools and libraries, the local Winn-Dixie store will have copies of the tape available to the public on a no-charge rental basis.

Reduce your homeowners insurance

By Janet K. Lukens
Coast Consumer
Management Center

The price homeowners pay for insurance on their homes and furnishings is based on a number of factors. Your premium depends on the amount of coverage you select, the amount of insurance you buy, the locality of your house, and the insurance company itself. Below are some suggestions to help you make the best use of your insurance premium dollars.

► Pay your premium annually. Generally speaking, the less book-keeping for the company, the lower the premium.

► Choose a larger deductible and save as much as 20 percent. Approximately one-third of all losses for damage to homes and contents are for less than $100. These small losses frequently are as costly to process as large losses.

► Install safety devices. Many devices such as a burglar alarm, sprinkler system, smoke detector, or dead bolt locks qualify for discounts. Some companies also offer discounts if the residents of the home are nonsmokers.

► Check on discounts for retirees or owners of new homes. Lower premiums may be offered to retired people because they often spend more time at home where they can look after their properties and lower the insurance company's risk. New homes may also be eligible for discounts of as much as 10 percent because they are less subject to insurance claims due to the newness of the construction wiring and safety features.

When developing your home insurance program, remember to use your home insurance dollars to first protect against risks that would result in major financial losses to your family. If you have a question, problem or complaint about insurance, you may contact the Mississippi Insurance Commissioner at 359-3582 or call Arbitration Forms' national hotline at 1-800-426-8889.

ASCS News

Funds available for tree planting, Gennin says

Farmers could save thousands of tons of top soil over the next several years by planting trees on idle and marginal cropland, and on other critically eroded areas," said Franklin A. Gennin, County Executive Director of the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office.

He said funds are currently available under the 1988 Forestry Incentives Program (FIP) to assist farmers in planting trees.

The FIP helps private non-industrial landowners to shift acreage better suited for trees than crops to timber production to help assure adequate national timber supplies.

Gennin said cost-sharing is generally necessary because landowners often cannot afford to make the long-term investment needed to produce crops of timber. Tree planting and timber stand improvement are two of the major practices offered under the program.

"Trees not only protect the soil and reduce sediment in streams, they increase the value of the land," he said.

Because the program emphasizes cost-effective timber production, participation is limited to land capable of producing more than 50 cubic feet of commercial timber per acre annually.

The program offers agreements in designated counties where landowners can plan tree planting and timber stand improvement measures for up to 10 years. To be eligible, farmers must plant at least 10 acres of trees and cannot own more than 1,000 acres of forest land.

To request cost-sharing to plant trees, farmers should contact the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office.

ASC ELECTIONS
The ASC committee elections are being conducted by mail through Dec. 7. Voters may also get ballots at the county ASCS office.

Eligible ASC voters have received a secret ballot in the mail with instructions on how to vote for candidates of their choice and return the ballot to the county ASCS Office.

IRS offers free tax help

To save on taxes this year and in years ahead, taxpayers should begin planning now, advises Tully Miller, IRS District Director.

Taxpayers need to learn how the Tax Reform Act of 1986 affects them, and they may need to adjust their tax withholding. Free IRS Publication 919, "Is My Withholding Correct?" can help do this.

The changes made by the Tax Reform Act of 1986 have been many. Tax rates have been lowered. For 1987, there are five tax rates, ranging from 11 percent to 38.5 percent; in 1988, there will be only two tax rates, 15 percent and 28 percent.

The deduction for personal exemptions is higher: $1,900 for 1987 and $1,950 for 1988. The old zero bracket amount has been replaced by the standard deduction, with higher standard deduction amounts allowed for blindness or 65 or over. The standard deduction amounts will increase in 1988. However, the standard deduction is limited for anyone who can be claimed as the dependent of another taxpayer. Tax planning will help determine whether to itemize deductions or to take the standard deduction. Many deductions have been repealed or are limited in 1987 under the new tax law. For example, the medical expense deduction is limited to an amount that is more than 7.5 percent of adjusted gross income; most allowable miscellaneous expenses are deductible only if they exceed 2 percent of AGI; personal interest phases out—only 65 percent is deductible in 1987; 40 percent in 1988; 20 percent in 1989; 10 percent in 1990; and no allowable deduction after that.

State and local sales taxes are no longer deductible. The IRA deduction is reduced or eliminated for many taxpayers. The tax credit for political contributions is repealed. The two-earner deduction for married couples who both work is repealed.

The dividend exclusion is no longer available. Income averaging is repealed. The so-called "Clifford Trust," a popular device for shifting parents' income to children in lower tax brackets, is gone.

Part of the income of children under the age of 14 who have investment income of more than $1,000 a year may be taxed at their parents' tax rate.

IRS has put out a new publication that gives detailed discussions of the various tax law changes. Publication 920, "Explanation of the Tax Reform Act of 1986 for Individuals," can also be useful in tax planning.

IRS publications are free by writing to the IRS

ELIZABETH CLAGGETT, (center), of the Diamondhead community is presented a certificate of appreciation by Kathryn Merkle and Becky Pearce from the Mississippi Library Commission. Mrs. Claggett who is chairman of the Hancock County Library System was a member of the Mississippi Public Library Task Force. The task force which recently formulated new public library legislation and funding structures was comprised of public library trustees, professional librarians, and state legislatures from across the state. The recommendations of the task force will be presented to the state legislature for consideration in the coming months.

ETV Briefs

APARTHEID

Apartheid. It's been nearly four decades since the system of racial separation and white rule was imposed by the Afrikaner government in South Africa. Now, Mississippi ETV presents a special five-part "Frontline" series, "Apartheid," which examines the issue.

The special series, airs on three consecutive evenings beginning at 9, Monday, Dec. 14. Two one-hour segments air on Monday, two beginning at 9, Tuesday, Dec. 15, and one at 10, Wednesday, Dec. 16.

Host Judy Woodruff introduces the documentaries, which trace more than 400 years of South Africa's racial history.
